

2016 USA Archery Arizona
JOAD Symposium
Coaches, Parents and Archers
The Relationship Between the Three

Communication is key to a successful relationship

A target with concentric rings in yellow, red, blue, and grey. Three arrows with yellow fletching and red tips are shown hitting the center bullseye.

- Time Commitment
- Expectations of Each Other
- Financial Commitment
- Impact on School and other parts of life
- Equipment
- Tournaments to attend
- Private Lessons
- What to do if it is not working

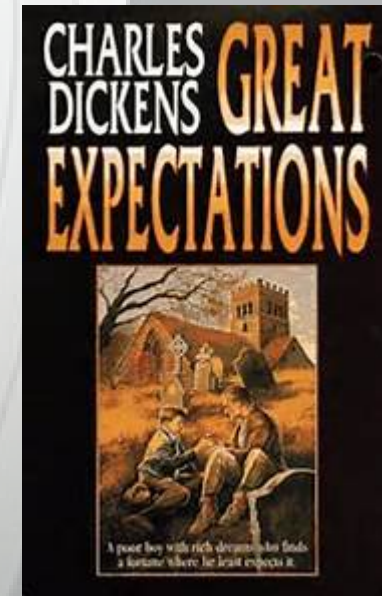

Time Commitment

- How Often to attend Club Practice, can they always attend, who brings them
- Private Practice Time How Much/Often, does their practice time match the expected level of performance
- Travel, this takes time, make sure it is included

Expectations of Each Other

- Nothing is more important than making this clear
- Role of you as a Coach
- Role of the Parent, its more than feed and water
- Role of the Archer

Financial Commitment

- Be Clear on Club Fees
- How much is the initial equipment investment
- Upgrades, how much and when
- Tournament Costs
- Travel Costs
- Private Lessons
- Continued Education (Coach)

Equipment Needs

- Recurve or Compound
- What Brands and Sizes
- Tools
- Quiver, Tabs, Releases, Plungers, Stabilizers
- The list is long and can be very confusing

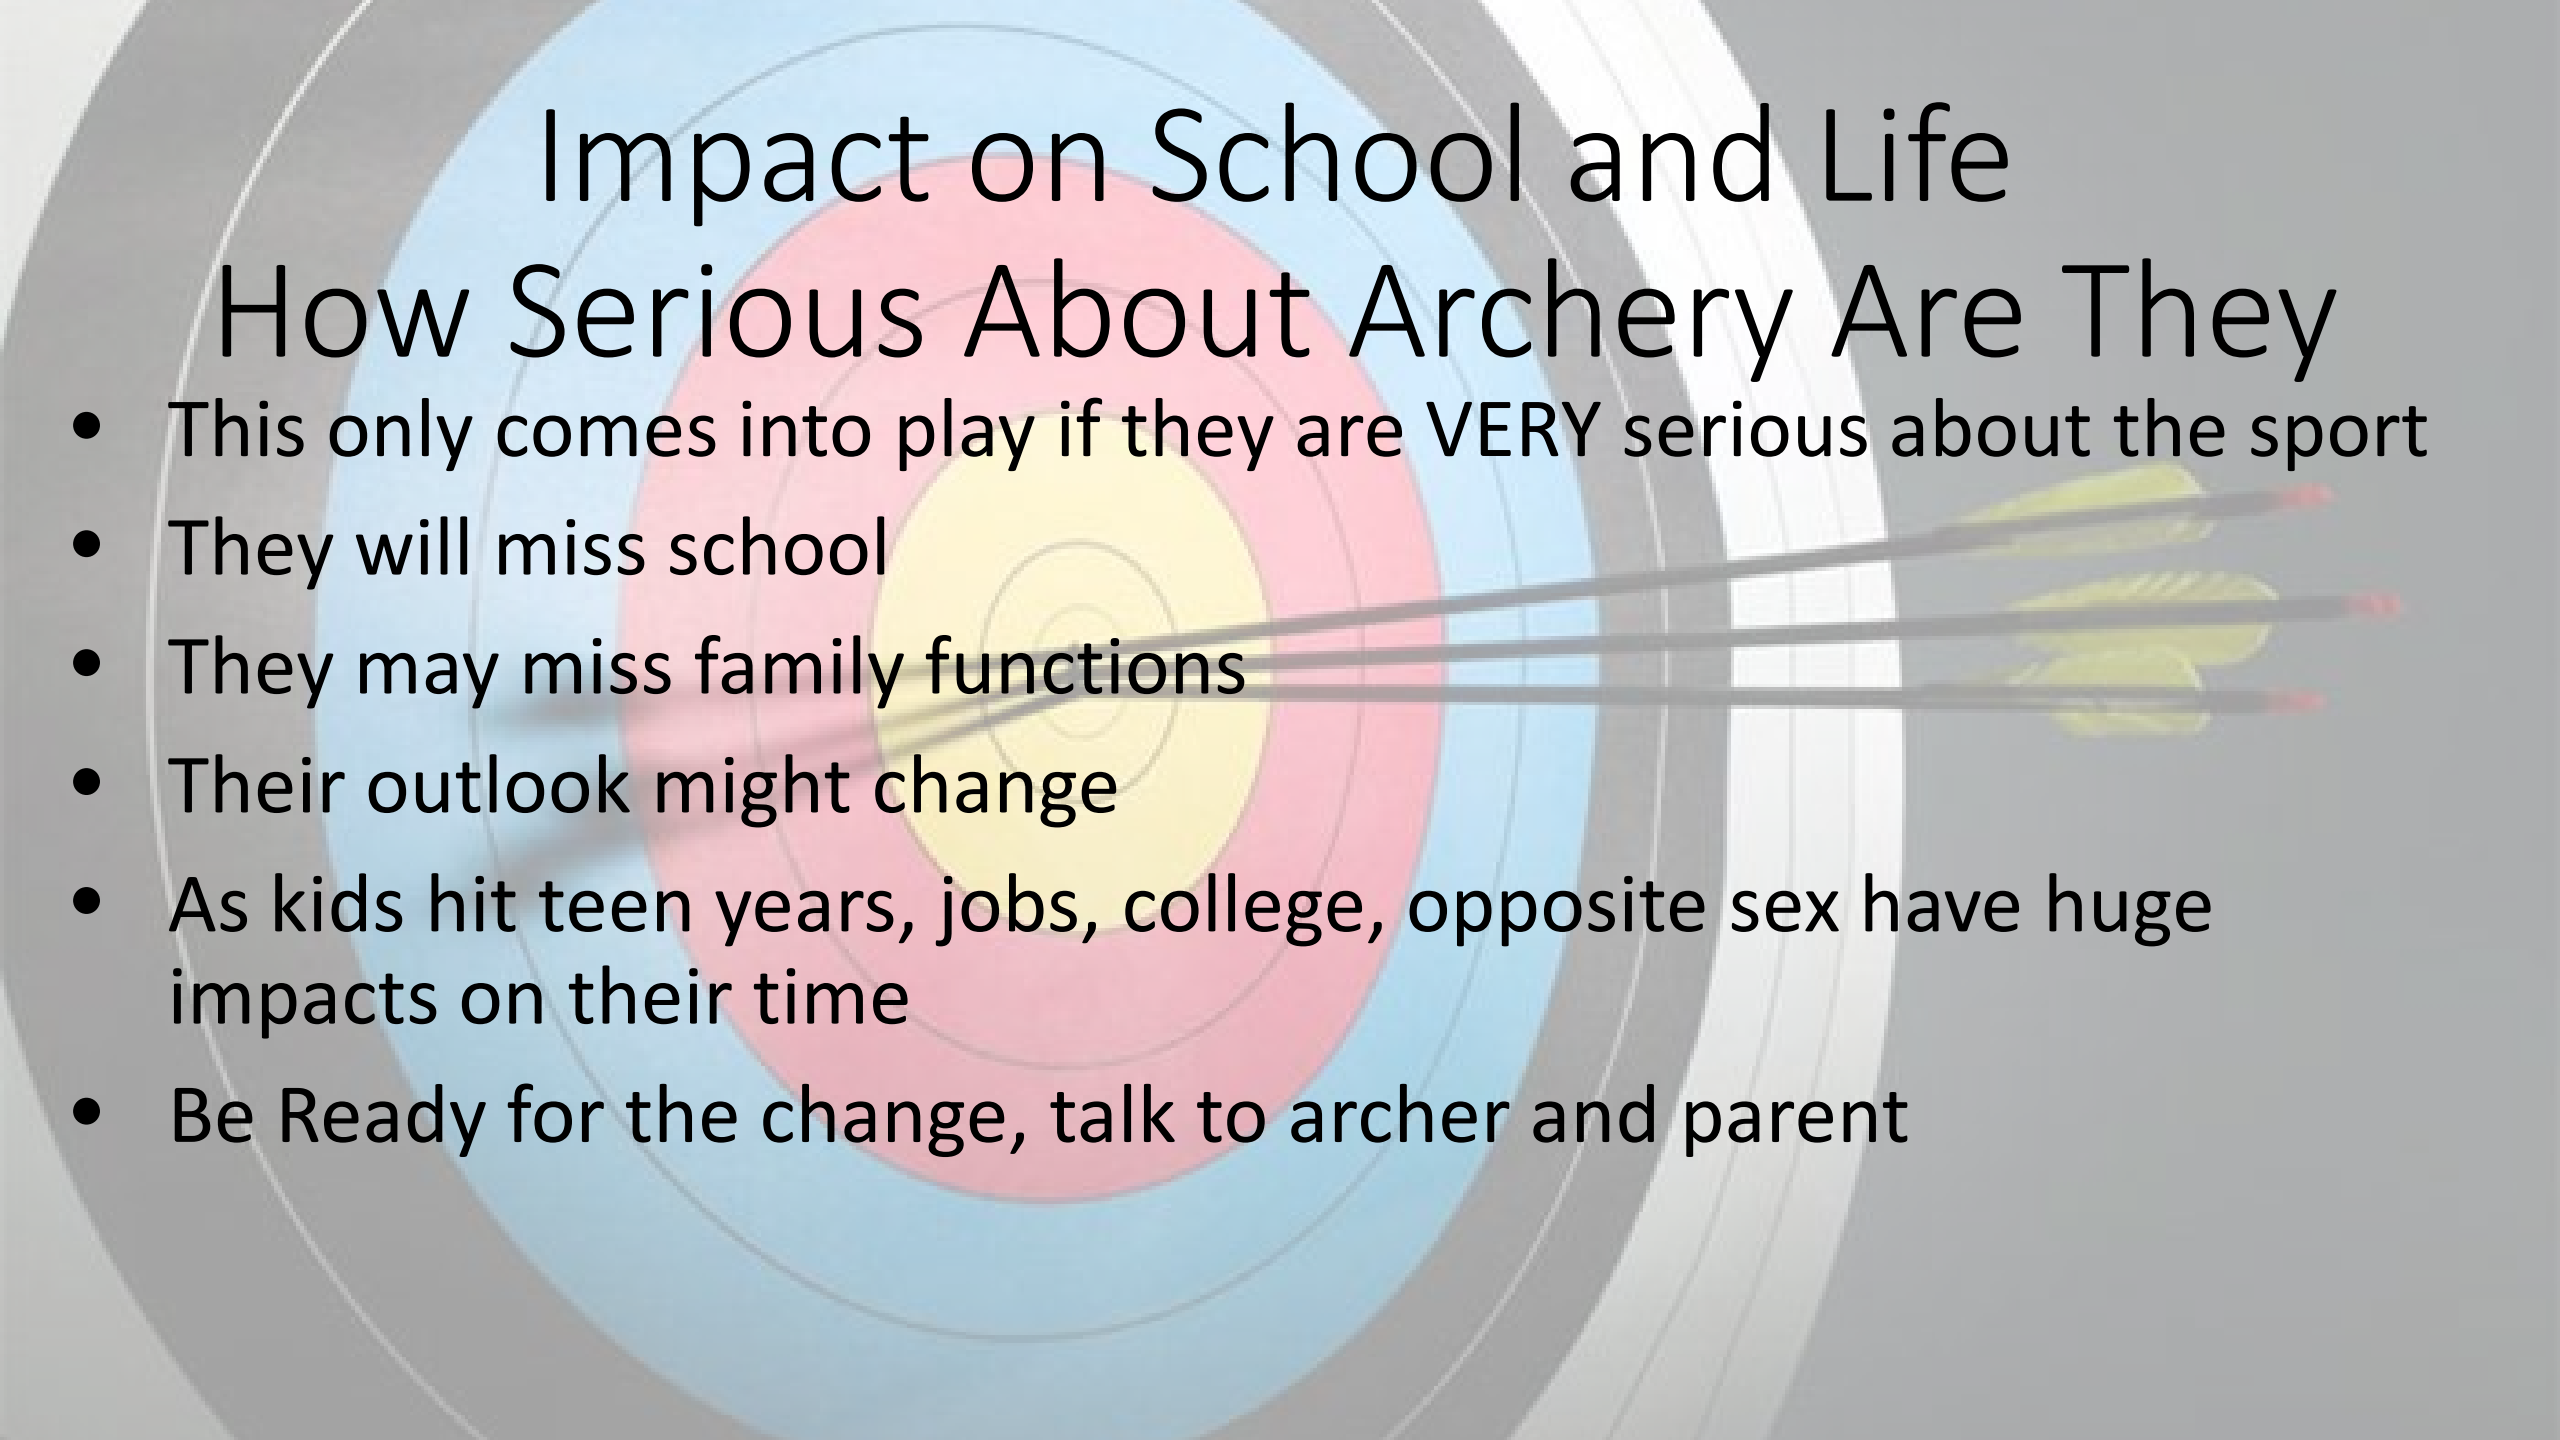

Equipment Needs for a Coach

A target with concentric rings in yellow, red, blue, and grey. Three arrows with yellow fletching and red tips are shown hitting the center bullseye.

- Fletching equipment
- Bow set up tools
- Bow Press
- Bow Vice
- Various pieces of equipment for archers to borrow
- Books, Videos
- Camera Equipment
- Scopes

Impact on School and Life

How Serious About Archery Are They

- This only comes into play if they are VERY serious about the sport
 - They will miss school
 - They may miss family functions
 - Their outlook might change
 - As kids hit teen years, jobs, college, opposite sex have huge impacts on their time
 - Be Ready for the change, talk to archer and parent
-
- A target with concentric rings in white, light blue, pink, and yellow. Three arrows with yellow fletching and red tips are shown hitting the center bullseye. The target is set against a grey background.

Tournaments

- Are They Ready? Distance? Accuracy? Physical Endurance?
- What Level of Tournament?
- Do They have the money?
- Will They take it serious? Parent might be too Serious!
- Look long and hard, Archer and Parents look for a lot of guidance here too.

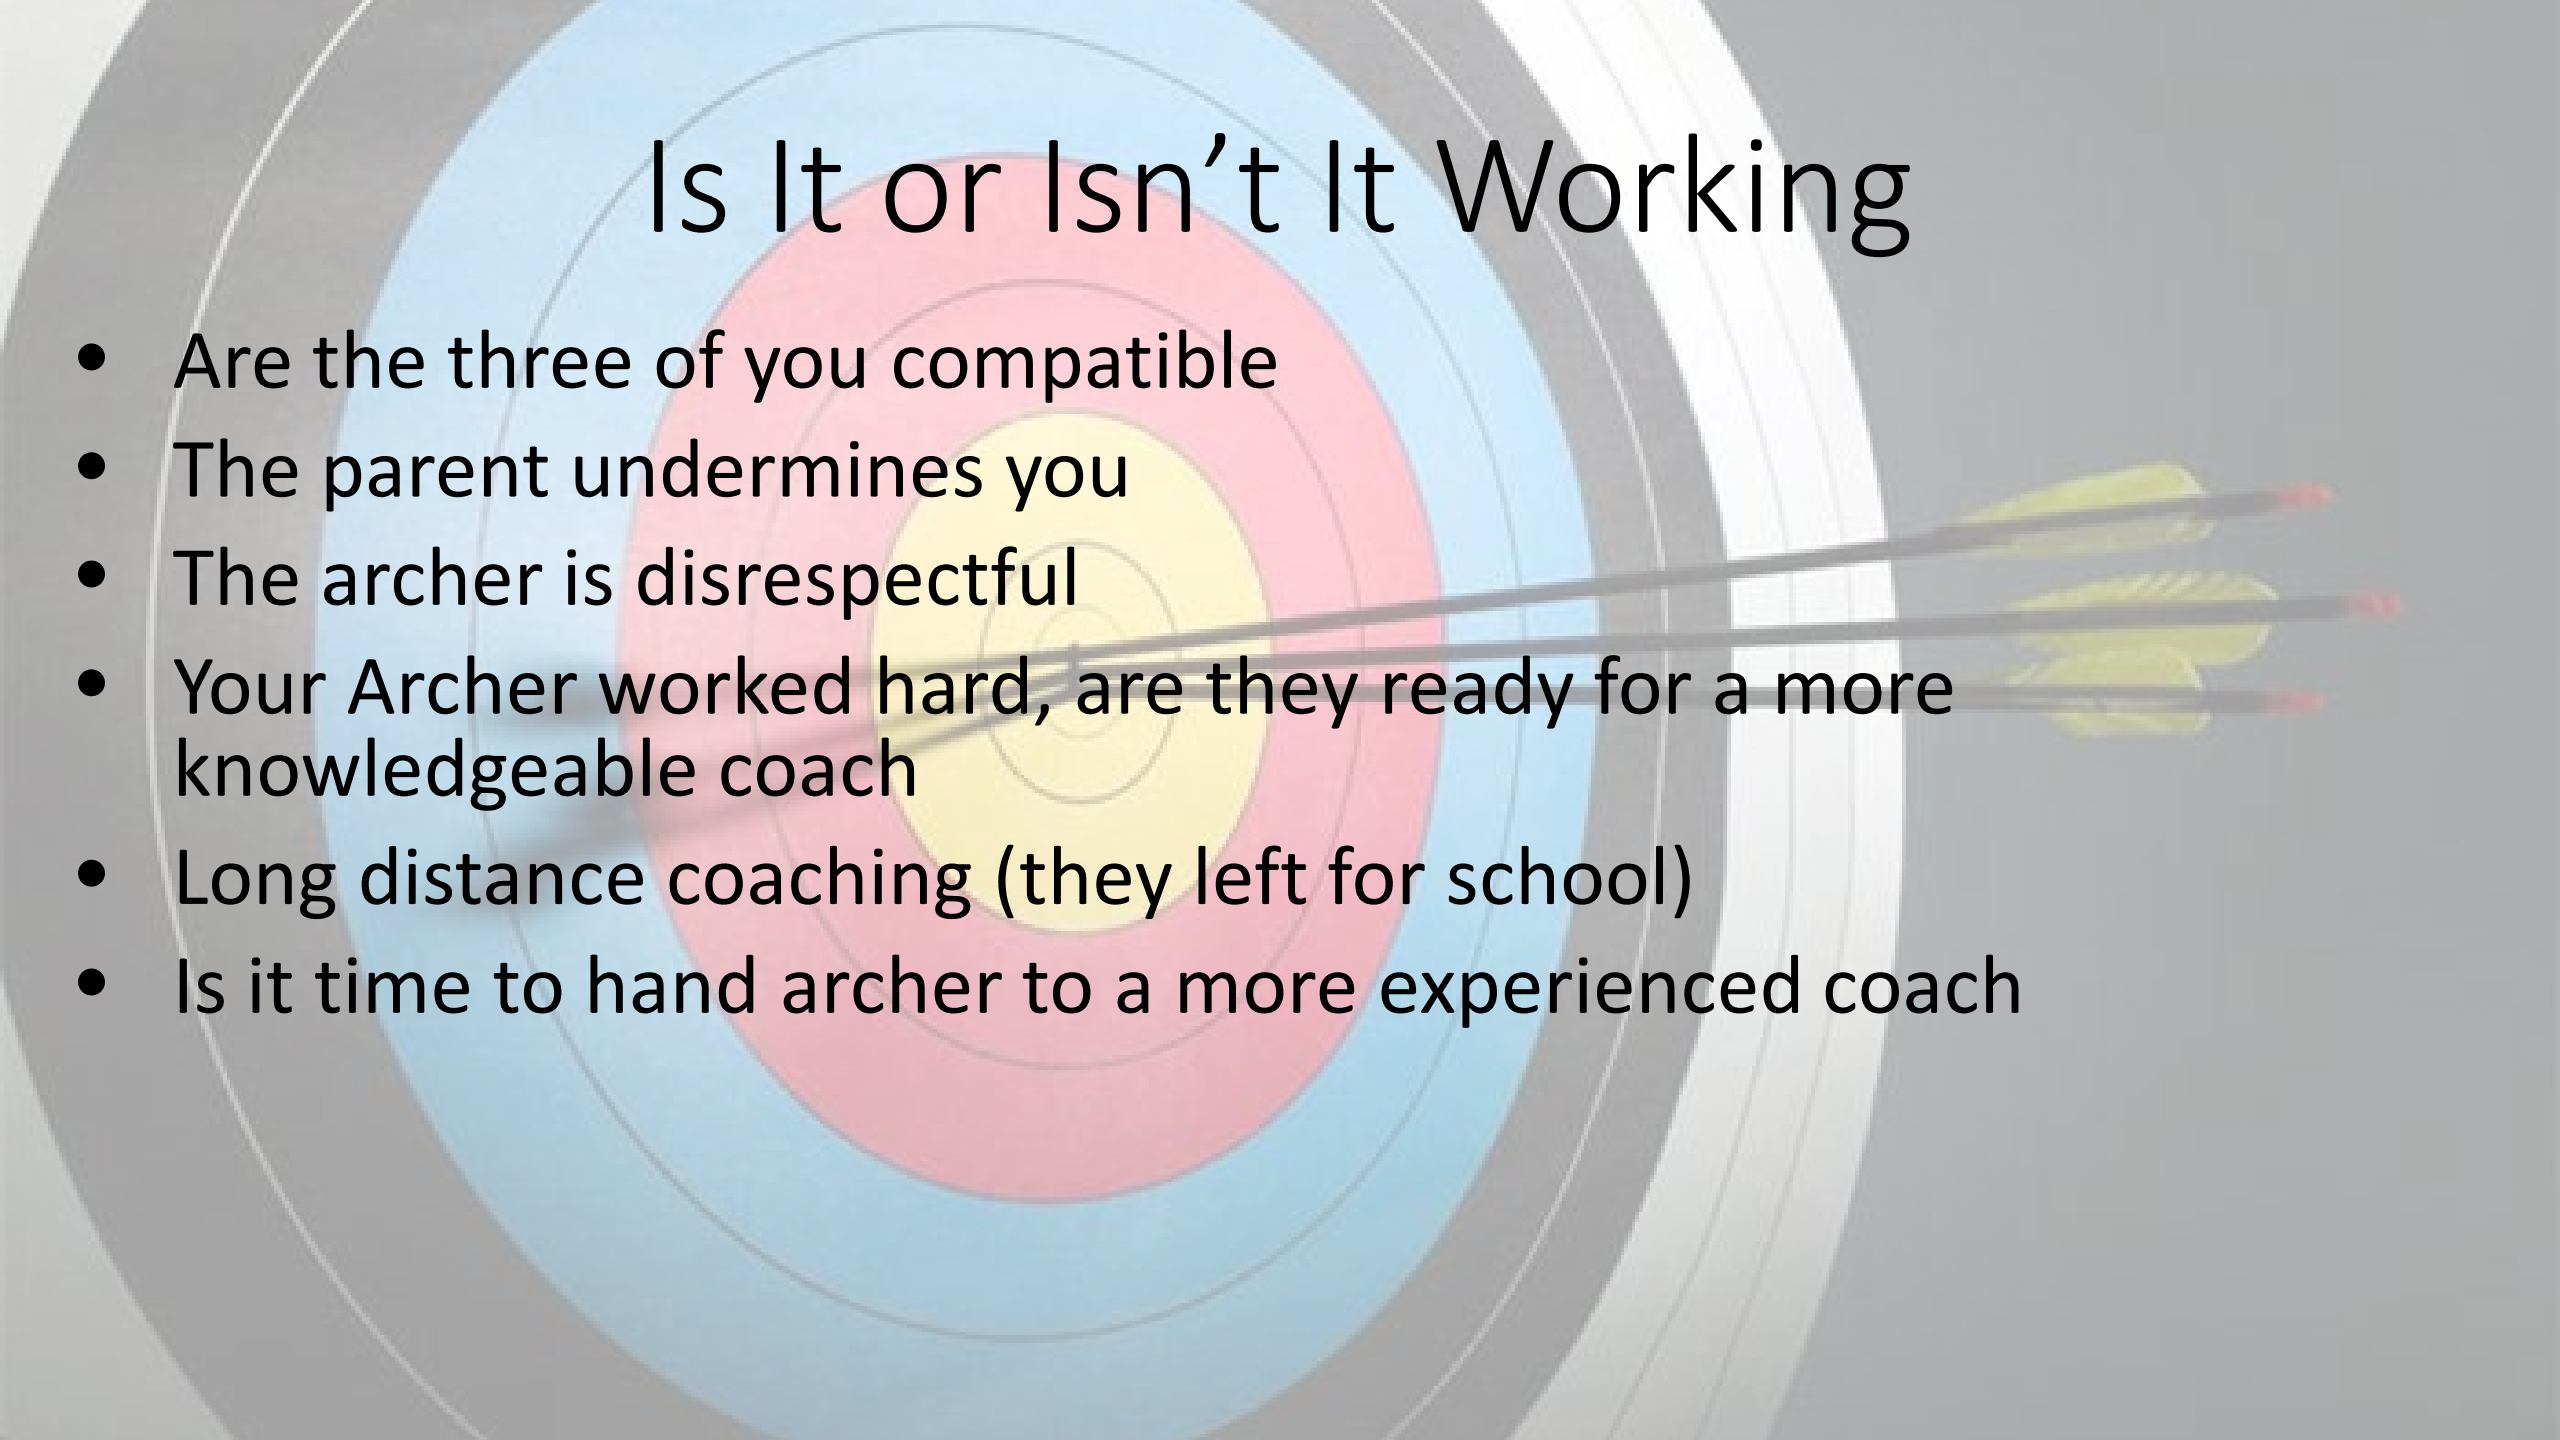

Private Lessons

- Do you wait for them to approach you or vice versa
- Are they Ready?
- Be Clear about your Fees! (be careful about discussing this with other coaches, anti trust laws may be in effect)
- If they are paying you; make sure they are getting their money's worth
- If they are paying you; make sure the archer is putting in their full effort

Is It or Isn't It Working

- Are the three of you compatible
 - The parent undermines you
 - The archer is disrespectful
 - Your Archer worked hard, are they ready for a more knowledgeable coach
 - Long distance coaching (they left for school)
 - Is it time to hand archer to a more experienced coach
-

You Know you did it right when...

- The Archer Enjoys the sport
- The Parents are happy with the Archers Efforts
- The biggest is your archer grows up to be a fine young man or woman
- It is not how often the archer is on the podium
- Archers Success Comes First